

Tyler Carr is a player that I have the utmost respect for and know that his passion and dedication to the sport will take him a long way. When he steps on the field, he is a player that will give you everything he has and will do whatever is asked of him from his coaches. Not only does he have the skill set to be successful on the field, but he has the mentality to be successful as well. It is without hesitation, that I give Ty the highest recommendation for the next levels of baseball. He will find success because of his baseball skills, his love of the game, his work ethic on and off the field, and his strong mental game.

Chris Matzner