

To whom it may concern,

It is my vast pleasure to recommend Connor Brigger. I've had the enjoyment of Connor in Leadership and Literature classes. . During the time that I have known him, his intelligence, honesty, and diligence have stood out from other students in the class. As part of our curriculum, he completed a very intense project which involved creating a possible future for himself and then planning out the details of that future. He was required to research and then make decisions about buying a house, going to college, beginning a career, having a family, and dealing with the unexpected. He then presented this to the class in a multimedia presentation, and did it very well.

He was very consistent in completing his school work in a timely manner and with the best quality he could deliver. Connor has been overcoming a car accident and has been very proactive in contacting me when necessary and taking responsibility for his own physical and mental health. I have seen him overcome this trial with persistence and keep moving forward.

I firmly believe he will succeed in whatever endeavors he may have in the future. I sincerely recommend him for whatever he may pursue.

Sincerely,
