

To whom it my concern:

It is with great pride that I write this letter of reference for Jose (Pep) Romo. I have had the pleasure of working closely with Jose and have witnessed firsthand his exceptional maturity, dedication, and commitment to the game of baseball. Jose is the kind of athlete every coach hopes to have on their roster. His work ethic is second to none, consistently showing up early, staying late, and making the most of every opportunity to improve. His outstanding practice habits set the standard for those around him—he approaches every drill and repetition with focus, intensity, and a drive to get better every single day.

What truly sets Jose apart, however, is his maturity both on and off the field. Jose conducts himself with humility and respect. He leads by example and has earned the trust and admiration of coaches and teammates. I have no doubt that Jose (Pep) Romo's character, dedication, and passion for the game will continue to serve him well in all his future endeavors. Any program would be fortunate to have him.
