To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing this letter in reference to Brayden Wingerd. Brayden has been in my physics class since the beginning of this school year. During that time, he has maintained a 98 percent and has performed admirably on homework and exams.

In observing Brayden, I have seen a respectful, hard-working young man. His work ethic has been solid and consistent. He has shown maturity with his classmates as well as in his interactions with me as a teacher.

In closing, I offer my high recommendation of Brayden Wingerd as a student and as a human being.

Sincerely,

Chad Brown
