

To whom it may concern re: Kaden Edgington.

I've known Kaden for several years and watching him grow up as a ball player and a person has been nothing short of exemplary.

He is a talented player and will be a fantastic collegiate player due to his talent, work ethic, bloodlines and the young man is a fantastic human being... especially for his age.

Having worked with Kaden, these are some of the attributes that I believe will make him a quality college baseball player:

Aptitude-his aptitude is among the highest players have worked with.

Work ethic- the young man eats, drinks and sleeps baseball.

Bloodlines- his father played high level baseball and is a coach.

Coaches kid- there is nothing easy about being a coach's kid but the end result is usually outstanding.

Character-he is being raised in a family where high character is expected and he delivers.

Eye talent- he sees the ball at an elite level while in the batter's box.
