

Kaden Edgington was an outstanding student in my Algebra 2 Honors class, where he demonstrated exceptional leadership through his dedication, questioning ability, and attention to detail. His maturity and focus were evident both in academics and athletics. Kaden's analytical thinking and commitment to excellence in the classroom mirror his approach on the baseball diamond: consistent, prepared, and disciplined. His strong work ethic and steady demeanor make him a natural leader and dependable teammate. As both his teacher and school counselor, I can say that students like Kaden do not come around often—he truly stands out for his character, drive, and integrity.
