To whom it may concern:

I am writing today on behalf of Dennis Carey. I have known Dennis since the day he was born, so it's been incredibly meaningful to watch him grow up over the years into the person he is today. I also had the privilege of working with him as his high school counselor for two years, which gave me an even deeper perspective on his character and growth. He has always been someone who puts in the effort whether it's school, sports, or anything he commits to and that steady determination really stands out. He doesn't look for shortcuts and takes pride in doing things the right way.

Dennis is also just a genuinely good person. He's polite, respectful, and easy to be around, and he treats friends, teachers, and coaches with kindness and consideration. The way he carries himself shows a level of maturity and character that not everyone his age has.

I feel lucky to have watched him grow up, both personally and in a school setting, and I'm excited to see where life takes him next. I have no doubt he'll continue to work hard and make a positive impression wherever he goes.

Sincerely,

Kristine Walter
