CHRISTIAN SCHOOL

March 14, 2023

To Whom It May Concern,

Clayton Londo informed me that he was applying for admission and seeking to continue his athletic career at your university. I was honored that he asked me to write a letter of recommendation, because as his elementary and middle school principal, I have known him literally most of his life. I have had the privilege of watching Clayton grow up into a fine young man who exemplifies the qualities you would look for in a university student and collegiate athlete. Clayton is a well-rounded, well-mannered young man with high academic standards, personal integrity and an upbeat, positive attitude.

He exemplifies the qualities of a person likely to attain success in higher education. While at Foothill, Clayton had a strong academic record earning top GPA honors. He also excelled in athletics. He was well-liked and respected by his peers and teachers alike. He stood out as a person with a great outlook on life and a strong sense of direction for his future.

When reviewing candidates, I'm sure you consider more than just aptitude and academic success. The worthiest candidates must also have moral integrity and character. Certainly, Clayton stands out among his peers in this area. He has always demonstrated personal high standards of excellence and a willingness to help others. He would make any college athletic roster better in every way.

I have followed Clayton's high school career with interest because he is a person with a bright future. With your help I am certain he will achieve his life's ambitions. I urge you to carefully review his application and extend an offer to become a student at your school. Your organization will help unlock his future and he will make the university proud!

Sincerely,

Robert M. Gutzwiller
