To whom it may concern,

It is my honor to write a letter on behalf of Drake Stillwell. I have known Drake for 13 years and have watched him grow into the young man he is today. I am excited to see the opportunities available to him and the decisions he makes in this next chapter of his life. Drake's personality, character and strong moral compass will be beneficial no matter the direction he chooses to go.

I am the director of a large Awana Club at Faith Bible Church in Glendale, Arizona. Awana is an international ministry which strives to disciple children in their relationship with Christ. One way this is accomplished is through engaging clubs that are age appropriate for children. Our club serves preschool children-6th grade. Drake participated in our club beginning in preschool and then became a volunteer.

Drake has served in our club for 6 years. As a volunteer, Drake is stellar. He always puts the safety of the children he works with first. Another quality we appreciate is his ability to develop good relationships with those he serves with and follows directions well. As the director, there are times that I need to change a schedule and am unable to share the details as to why. Drake takes direction and knows what to do no matter where he is serving. I can always depend on Drake to help out when needed.

If you wish to know more about the character of Drake Stillwell, please do not hesitate to contact me. No matter the direction Drake chooses, those who meet him, will be better off because they know him.

Sincerely,

Susan Cary
Faith Bible Church Awana Director
