

I've been working with Mark for the last year on his hitting. He is very coachable, eager to learn, and willing to work on his craft. He is just scratching the surface as a player as he possesses a wiry frame that has a lot of room for strength gains. He is currently a singles hitter that can use the field gap to gap with the ability to play any infield position. Like all athletes Marks age, he is a work in progress and shows the dedication to put in the work to get to the next level.
